The Calgary Saints are looking for an individual who can help promote and embody our club culture. This position is ideal for a coach who is looking to step into a head coach role surrounded by a network of coaches with professional, national, and provincial level playing experience.

The perfect candidate is a rugby-loving individual that is willing to embrace and teach a young, potential-filled team. They will bring innovative ways to coach our players to success and will take pride in the growth and development of individual players and the team as a whole.

Description

The role of the head coach is to plan and execute fun, worthwhile training sessions that challenge the players and enhance their skills and game knowledge. The head coach is responsible for coaching all men's players. They will select line-ups for both the first and second division teams. The senior men's teams currently play in the Alberta Men's Leagues and have athletes ranging from the beginner level to the representative level.

The head coach will receive support and direction from the director of rugby to ensure that the core values of our club remain intact.
